Who had the best life? (Question)

This month we have been looking at people and the way they lived, like for example we were reading about Habitant people, Priests and Nuns, Coureurs des Bois, famers, fur traders and the first nation's people. But there are 3 main people that I will be focusing on about who had the best life, Habitant people, Priests and Nuns and Coureurs des Bois. The 3 groups of people all a good life in some

In my opinion I think that the Priests and Nuns had the best life because they had a great education, for the boys they taught them things such as Latin, mathematics, philosophy, and religion because they would become lawyers, doctors, or priests. But on the other hand the girls education was a little bit different they learned how to do writing, arithmetic, and homemaking, and they were ether we going to nuns or wives.

Another thing that kept their life good was they never had to do any violence, and they never had to kill anybody, because nuns and priests didn't have any weapons to start violence. And they were priests and priests don't really believe in violence.

That is why I think the nuns and priests had the best life over the people of Habitant and the people of Coureurs des Bois.
